SUMMARY

I am a versatile professional with expertise across both business and data domains. With a background spanning sales, entrepreneurship, and data analytics, I bridge the gap between business needs and technical solutions. I specialize in collecting, analyzing, and translating data into actionable insights while also applying strategic frameworks to drive business growth. My experience ranges from managing operations and achieving sales targets to building data pipelines, dashboards, and models that support data-driven decision-making. I thrive at the intersection of business strategy and data technology, ensuring measurable outcomes from concept to execution.
